- Section: "Funding updates" with a sub-header "Funding updates".
- Text: "Updated 02 July 2021 - Review of post-16 qualifications at level 3 and below. Withdrawal of funding approval for qualifications with no and low publicly funded enrolments. ESFA have once again reviewed low and no demand qualifications that have less than 100 learners drawing down funding. This will be an annual review of all Awarding Organisation qualifications. City & Guilds appealed a substantial amount qualifications with low demand and have been successful in retaining funding for 133 qualifications. ESFA will remove funding from the remaining qualifications listed here by August 2022. In addition to those that had their funding retained, 14 of these qualifications are now..."

Taking Teaching Further programme is a national initiative to attract experienced business and industry professionals to teach in Further Education (FE).

This Department for Education-funded initiative is managed on its behalf by the Education and Training Foundation who also played a key role in the programme's development. It was launched in June 2018 with four rounds of funding having been successfully completed between 2018 and 2022.

Round 5 of Taking Teaching Further has now launched – Registration is open

What's new in Round 5?

Core Skills Subjects: Maths, English and SEND

Part time delivery option for part time teachers

Taking Teaching Further has been expanded beyond the 15 technical routes to include a 'core skills' element, which aims to support the recruitment of business and industry experts to teach English, maths or SEND to Technical subject students.

Funding of up to £18,200 per recruit is now available

Round 5 will run until July 2024 and will continue to offer FE providers support with the funding towards new recruits undertaking a Level 5 teaching qualification, receiving intensive support such as paired teaching, mentoring or work shadowing, as well as a reduced teaching workload in the first year of teaching.

Support for your application

Even if you have participated previously in the programme its important to read the guidance materials as changes have been made to the delivery of the programme. There will also be webinars that you will be asked to attend once registered that will take you through in more detail and explain the changes made.

Supporting customers with assessment in 2021-22 – Covid-19

This page was last updated 09 December 2021

Updated 08 December – Assessment guidance for 2022 – an update

We're working closely with Ofqual and other Awarding Organisations to look at various scenarios with assessments for 2022. Currently, the direction is that all assessments will continue as normal into next year. If Government direction changes on this, we will keep you informed as to any adjustments to this position.

We are working closely with education providers, employers, regulators and government departments on assessment arrangements for 2022.

We appreciate that as your situation changes you will have many questions and concerns

Covid-19 Update

- City & Guilds Covid-19 Adaptations guidance.
- Currently the expectation is there will be a return to pre-covid arrangements for assessment.
- Final arrangements for 2022/23 to be decided.

Questions?
